Editorial

Kanpur Historiographers is an Internationally peer-reviewed and refereed Journal of History, Archaeology, Indology and Numismatics. The New Archaeological & Genological Society Kanpur (India) has been publishing it for the last few years. The Editorial Board is highly obliged to the academic cooperation by the authors, students, and readers. We thank you on your contribution in the field of research and guidance which helps us to improve the quality of the Journal. The research papers published in the last issues verify the unbiased attitude in the selection of the papers. We always welcome all schools of thought to share their academic research to enlighten the coming generations on different subjects.

Knowledge-based economy has become instrumental in good governance in a country and national prestige at the international level. The countries allocating little budget on education and research lag behind other nations. In South Asian countries, the governments allocate little budget to education therefore they are still relying on the research produced by western academia. We the people from this region prefer books written by foreign authors although they are most of the time blank about the local culture, language, and history. We will have to pledge to elevate our educational institutions, laboratories, libraries, archives, and research institutes to a higher level to equip our posterity with the modern research techniques and sources that will equally produce authentic research findings which the western researchers will follow and quote. The colleges ought to publish their own journals and provide an opportunity to the faculty to be engaged in research-oriented activities.

The present issue of the Journal offers a wide range of studies along with book reviews. We hope, the work will attract the attention of the readers and add new knowledge. We are thankful to the authors and the readers for their cooperation and valuable help and we do hope, it will continue in the coming time as well.
