Editorial

The winter issue of tenth volume of Kanpur Historiographers contains six articles among the first article entitled "Institution of marriage in ancient India" written by Dr. Rajesh Singh is brief legal detail of marriages in ancient India. The paper is written on the basis of ancient treatises with proper referencing. The description of comparative marriages is provided in detail. The second paper entitled "Theories of the origin of the state and penal systems in India" authored by Prof. Adesh Gupta is brief historical account of state formation in India as well as evolution of penal systems in parallel. Paper written by Prof. Atul Kumar Shukla is micro study of contemporary India discussing about communalism. The paper provides a sketch of partition of India on communal basis. Paper written by Prof. Anil Kumar Mishra entitled "A Historical account of Kanpur district in Uttar Pradesh" is discussion of personality of Kanpur district in United Provinces of British India. The paper includes a brief of monumental study. Paper written by Dr. Satya Prakash Singh is dialogue on famous epic Bhagavad Gita. The paper is based on fundamentals of pure philosophy and enriched with citations from great treatise. Last paper of the issue written by Dr. Balaji Shankarrao Chirade is based on Gandhian educational philosophy. The paper shows how the Gandhian philosophy is relevant today in era of New Education Policy 2020.
