Editorial

Journey of Kanpur Philosophers has been going on for the last 10 years in which three types of Issues have been published in the tenth volume of the year 2023. In the first Issue only selected research papers of law and political science disciplines have been published while in the second Issue various subjects have been published. While in the third issue of the tenth volume, only Hindi language articles have been included in Devanagari script and a total of 42 selected and refereed articles have been given place in this third edition. Fake and illegal issues of Kanpur Philosophers were published all over the country, due to which the editorial board received many mails from the Deans of Research of various universities, demanding to check the validity and genuineness of the research papers published and Editorial board regularly reported their validity on each occasion. According to an estimate, about 36 fake and illegal issues of Kanpur Philosophers have been seen in the whole country, which have nothing to do with our publication or our organization, probably this is happening due to ignorance, people think that The meaning of the print journal is that there is no online description of it, but starting from the year 2014, the online copies of each issue of journal has been continuously uploaded to genuine web site and people have been falling prey to forgery, We are trying to soon start the process of obtaining electronic ISSN. we shall go so that people can get rid of this confusion.

In the third Issue of Volume 10 of Kanpur Philosophers, which is being published on 29 June 2023, a total of 48 articles and research papers have been compiled, the reviews of which are given below. First article Arvind Kumar Singh and Ajay Kumar Singh's National Education Policy 2020 is a comparative study of Mahatma Gandhi's educational ideas, which has been presented a beautiful description by both the people in relation to historical and current contexts and it is an important work in keeping Gandhi's educational ideas relevant. The second article by Anant Kumar Sharma and Pavanesh Kumar is on observation of modern education, skill development and entrepreneurship. It is also based on modern education. Various primary sources has been done in this research paper written by historian Ambika Prasad Tiwari. That the Indian Ocean is fully capable of throwing light on the historical and political importance and this article has been evaluated in the historical context of India. The fourth article has been written by Deepak Kumar Srivastava on women empowerment in which legal remedies are presented. There is a reality of the present era, but keeping in view its shortcomings, Deepak Kumar Srivastava has presented a model for its solution. Harjinder Kaur has written on the relevance of the educational philosophy of Shri Aurobindo Ghosh in the 21st century. In this issue on education philosophy Several texts were written, one of which is the important article, the relevance of Sri Aurobindo's philosophy of education, presented by the author in a positive way. The sixth research paper was written by Mahendra Kumar and Alok Kumar Kashyap, which is Pradhan Mantri Ujjwala Yojana and rural women's health. This is a sociological study focused on the survey work, an attempt has been made by the author to write an excellent paper, similarly in this issue, an excellent article has been presented by Mamta Devi, which is based on the points mentioned in Uttara Adhyayan Sutra, this Jain treatise The ancient series of texts are part of Aagam literature and thus the article based on ancient history is excellent example of Pali language analysis. Mujeeb ur Rehman's Study on the experience of protection of women's human rights in India co authored by Ramchandra Meena is the eighth research paper of this issue in which the human rights of women A critical study has been presented in the context of village Gunvachak Bassi of Jaipur district. Another article on the subject has been presented by Anees Ahmed, Nikki Kumar and Nitish Kumar Chaturvedi, in which geographical indicators has been studied with special reference to the state of Uttar Pradesh. Similarly, the article written by Priya Singh and RK Chaurasia in geography is based on animal wealth, whose geographical study has been done in the special context of Pratapgarh district of Uttar Pradesh and the article is also based on government statistics. Another article on education by Vinod Kumar Jain and Ruby Sharma has been included in this issue which is on 11th and it discusses the possibilities and challenges of the New Education Policy 2020. Another article by Ratnartuh Mishra has been written on the relationship between teacher education and students. The article on Ram Rajya based on Shri Ramcharitmanas written by Shobha Mishra is included. This is one of the excellent articles of this issue, this article has been rendered at the philosophical level.

The article written by Vinay Kumar Singh and Anoj Raj focuses on Analytical study of spelling errors in Hindi language of secondary level students and it is a grammar article which was peer reviewed by Professor Manju Mishra. Similarly, the article on the role of language in the National Education Policy, written by Balaji Chirde from Wardha, is an analytical article in which the shortcomings and merits of the National Education Policy have been underlined on a point-by-point basis. It is hoped that this article will prove to be a milestone in the National Education Policy. The article written by Durgesh Kumar Shukla and Purushottam Singh 'Impact of Gandhi's Quit India call in Bundelkhand' is an excellent article written on contemporary history in which Gandhi's impact has been assessed in the Bundelkhand region, the impact of Gandhi's movements seems to be reflected on the whole country, but the authors have focused this article on the cultural unit of Bundelkhand, have presented the investigation. The article number 17 of this issue is related to ancient history, Kaushambi in Mahajanapada which has been written by Sanju Singh and Purushottam Singh The sources are based on the evidences of excavation of the city. Anil Kumar Verma and Purushottam Singh have presented an archaeological study of Chandel's land grant letters. Land grant letters are an authentic source of ancient Indian history, on the basis of which the history of Chandel has been outlined. Sanjesh Kumar Maurya and Purushottam Singh presented a critical study of Gandhi's views on Hind Swaraj or Indian Home Rule. The presentation by Gandhi was published under the name of Hind Swaraj and it was published in India and abroad. The article based on contemporary modern history is a historical commentary on contemporary society. Similarly, the article on the determination of land revenue in Banda district, written by Suryakant Mishra and Purushottam Singh, was basically about the Malgujari arrangements made by the East India Company in Banda district. This is a study which is completely based on primary sources. Such studies have special significance in history. Manju mishra's paper is based on Premchand's literature was made and this literary article is seen as fair article. Paper on globalization written by Manas Upadhyay is based on climate change and presented it critically. Article written by Rashida Ather and Yogendra Nath Tripathi has been related to the extent of education, a model has been presented by author. Similarly, an article has been written in Hindi by Veena Chhangani and Ramdayal Bairwa on the usefulness of Bal satsai. There is also a special article of its kind written by Aanchal Gupta and Rahul Gupta on the condition of Indian Muslim women in the current scenario, the reasons for the condition of Muslim women have been reviewed and presented to improve, similarly An article has been written by historian Umesh Kumar Singh on the Buddhist philosopher named Atisa and linked to the excavation of Vikramshila. Atisa has special importance in Buddhist literature, on which many books can be written till now. The article has been written from the point of view of archaeological excavations. another paper based on the treatise named 'Safinat ul auliya' written by Prince Dara Shikoh has been written authored by Seema Gautam and Deepak Singh. The spiritual and mystical side of this book has been highlighted in detail. Article written by Dorilal is based on the relevance of mathematics teaching in value determination makes a significant contribution in the field of teacher education, especially in the context of science subjects This article focused on the expansion of teacher education. Article written by Krishna Pal is centred on the usefulness of traditional Indian Smriti system, whose historical analysis has been presented. A sociological analysis has been presented on environmental pollution by Alok Kumar Kashyap and Jaiprakash Yadav, which has been placed on serial no. 30 in this issue, similarly in economic development by Asha Kumari. An analytical essay has been written on the role of capitalist economy. An excellent article on literary jurisprudence has been written by Suveg Singh Chauhan and Anees Ahmed, which has been included in this issue in serial number 32. This is a unique effort of its kind by the judges. How literature is used in its decisions and what is its role in legal selection has been highlighted in detail. The concept of Yama has been highlighted in Patanjali Yoga Sutra by Dhananjay Trivedi. In philosophy Patanjali Yoga Sutra is an important treatise, whose philosophical interpretation has been done by the author. Similarly, Shashank Singh and Ranjay Pratap Singh has presented an analytical study of the elements of religion. The editor-in-chief of the journal, Professor Atul Kumar Shukla, has thrown light on the class character of universal education in India. Professor Atul Kumar Shukla is a wonderful scholar who has authored a lot and these are considered a symbol of history, ancient history, archeology, Indology. He has demonstrated his seriousness and scholarship in various sessions of the Indian History Congress and the Akhil Bharteeya Itihas Sanklan Yojna. The entire editorial board is well aware of his academic prowess and feels happy to see him working continuously for 10 years as the Chief Editor.

Another notable member of the editorial board, Professor Adesh Gupta, has presented a remarkable article on the lifestyle of the Nawabs of Farrukhabad in this issue, which has been placed on number 36. An important article has been presented by Archana Singh on the role of bureaucracy in public administration and the structural features of the bureaucratic system have been highlighted in this article. The details of the British colonialism in India have been presented. Analysis of Ashtadhyayi a famous Sanskrit treatise wrote by Panini done by eminent Sanskrit scholar Professor Om Prakash Mishra. Various phases of British colonialism in India have been reviewed by young historian Mahendra Singh Bisht.. The publication of 3 phases of Indian colonialism was done in independent India by Professor Bipan Chandra, this research paper was a presentation of those three phases in its own analytical style. Vijay Pratap Singh's article on the theme of political science is based on voting behavior in Indian democracy including its figures and factors. Author Nawal kishor Mishra's article on the theme of traditional Law which is based on famous treatise of Yagyavalkya in ancient times. The article written on a purely legal basis. The paper deals with strong evidences used in legal process in ancient India.
