Editorial

I am thankful to all honourable members of editorial Board and contributors of the winter issue, especially my friend Dr. Akhtar Hussain Sandhu from Lahore, Pakistan; who gave me several suggestions regarding improvement of the quality of journal . Few of them are followed during editing. I am sure that the next issue will surely overcome all qualitative difficulties. I am grateful to my friend Dr. Purushottam Singh for his instantaneous help during the course of editing .His knowledge regarding Indology always gives me a new incite. I am also thankful to Prof. Romila Thapar, eminent historian of time who gave me a new incite regarding modern sense of a historian. My friend Dr. S.K.Giri from Odisha asked a question regarding Bankim Chandra Chaterjee during the lecture of prof. Thapar at ASC- JNU New Delhi. I am quoting Prof. Thapar's mail response to me on 15.10.2014 given as under-

“The definition that we use for history today is a post-Enlightenment definition and derives from the debate on history that followed from the nineteenth century. Neither Amir Khusro nor Kalhana were historians in the modern sense and this distinction has to be maintained when we talk about historians from past times. Perhaps if you read my book, The Past before Us, you will see the point. A historian in the modern sense has to be someone aware of the historical method and Bankim Chandra was not aware of this, partly because it had not been worked out as a method in his time.”

I am highly indebted of Prof. U.P.Arora & Prof. Ranbir Chakravarti both from JNU for their valuable suggestions . I am also thankful to Prof. Rajendra Singh, Dr. R.K. Bhatiya both from Bundelkhand University Jhansi for their kind guidance. I am happy that four new members are added to Editorial Board, which was necessary for qualitative as well as quantitative improvement. Therefore I welcome Dr. Kuljit Singh, Co-ordinator distance education at Jammu University at Bhadrawah campus; Dr. Balaji Chirade from Nanded (Maharashtra); and as honourable members of Editorial Board of Kanpur Philosophers. I am extremely thankful to my friends Dr. Umakanta Mishra, Revenshaw University Cuttack and Dr. Ajmal Mueen MA from Mukkam, Calicut for his valuable remarks on contemporary India.
